BROILERS AND EGGS LED INCREASE IN
U.S. POULTRY EXPORTS IN 1981

FPE 1-82
March 1982

Exports of U.S. poultry products showed substantial increases again in 1981, with a total value that was 27 percent above 1980 sales. Poultry meat accounted for two-thirds of the overall export value in 1981, while eggs and egg products made up about one-fourth of the total, and live poultry exports brought in the remaining value. Chicken parts, whole broilers, table eggs, and egg products accounted for almost all of the increase in the U.S. total export value for poultry in 1981.

Broilers

U.S. exports of chicken parts increased 35 percent over the 1980 level, with the Far East and the Caribbean together taking 73 percent of U.S. exports of chicken parts in 1981. Japan showed the largest 1981 increase as consumer demand continued to climb and Japanese broiler production declined slightly. The average per-ton export value of chicken parts was about 5 percent above the 1980 figure. U.S. exports of whole broilers were 17 percent above the 1980 figure, because large increases to Egypt, Iraq, and Venezuela more than offset the numerous declines in other markets. These three countries and Mexico accounted for 82 percent of U.S. whole broiler exports in 1981. Egypt showed the largest increase last year, as the Egyptian Government continued its high level of meat imports. The average export value of whole broilers increased by less than 2 percent in 1981.

Trade figures point up the difference between the markets for the two categories of U.S. broiler exports, chicken parts and whole broilers, during the last two years. Of the 16 countries that imported at least 1,000 tons of U.S. chicken parts in 1980, two-thirds increased those imports during 1981 and only one country decreased its imports by more than 12 percent. On the other hand, of the 17 countries that imported at least 1,000 tons of U.S. whole broilers in 1980, more than half decreased their imports of this U.S. product during 1981 and seven of these countries showed declines of more than 65 percent. The difference in the markets of these two export categories resulted in large part from the U.S. position relative to other major exporters. The United States is presently, without significant competition, the leading exporter of chicken parts. On the other hand, competition for whole broiler exports, primarily from the EC and Brazil, is intense. For example, U.S. exports of whole broilers to Saudi Arabia, Romania, and Angola dropped drastically in 1981, while French shipments of whole chickens to each of these countries increased substantially last year.

Turkey Parts

U.S. exports of turkey parts in 1981 were 24 percent below the 1980 level, primarily due to declines in the two major U.S. markets, Egypt and West Germany. U.S. shipments to Egypt slowed considerably during the latter half of 1981, probably due to Egyptian restrictions on private sector imports and general confusion regarding Egyptian import policies. U.S. exports to West Germany in 1981 were hurt by the strengthening of the dollar.

Table Eggs

U.S. exports of table eggs increased by 75 percent last year, compared with the 1980 level, and 70 percent of the 1981 total went to the Middle East. The impressive increase in U.S. exports to the Middle East was due to increased demand from oil-producing countries, low U.S. egg prices, and the unique ability of the U.S. industry to fill large export orders quickly. Exports of U.S. table eggs to Hong Kong also rose significantly, probably due to lower shipments from Hong Kong's other major supplier, China. The average export value for U.S. table eggs in 1981 was about 5 percent above the 1980 figure.

Egg Products

U.S. exports of egg products in 1981 were substantially above the 1980 level, primarily as a result of increased exports to Japan. Egg production in Japan declined slightly in 1981, while Japanese confectioners, bakers, and producers of meat and fish pastes increased their demand for egg products.
